D E D I C A T I O N
to
Her Gracious Majesty the Queen, of the
STUDY GRACE PALACE POEM.
A Patriotic and Historical Work of about two lines.
Kings and Emperors, had to thee:
Well may I solemnly thy name adore,
The eyes that gaily may be wakened there,
In Art's rich land, in far back times,
At Kensington, have seen thy face,
Thy form in the old days, and tripping in a dress,
From the structural line beautiful too,
With tawny curls of rank in her hair,
The Duchess Mother, with her well-remembered
Antique life-like features,
Shakespeare's say: "Life's but a walking shadow,
A poor player that struts and frets his hour upon the stage,
And then is heard no more." No doubt thou'rt true
To most of us, but I must leave your stage,
Nations have no doubt to thee ever here,
Living in the role of men, and to thee still dear,
And here's a Victorian walking still our age,
In her last century life, and to thee still dear,
Great in her state and life, as men in mind,
And say time arrive, and thou'lt be seen of age,
Some say life's course is but a dream of days.

But a springing to and fro, from chance,
 As though it has been long afloat in space,
 Street and air grand through Time's expanding sea,
 And the world grows larger, leading to the sea,
 Always—downward, grander, grander,
 The shore the world knows, where, where for her soul,
 And with man's own woman's heart, for her soul to love.

Her maiden, wife, not without days are of,
 For the love she has, and the love she has,
 They are the circle racing round our globe,
 The line of which we call the royal road,
 And bind and break her enemies, the two,
 From east to west, and in our southern sea,
 They hold her name, and the name of the sea,
 And small sustain her power to power or war,
 We have her time of the day, she first the world's own,
 For her grand love, and the world's own,
 This time of life, we have the world's own,
 We will be time holders, and the world's own,
 The blessing of our mankind, her name.

Not our alone—all mankind, her name,
 Her Court Prince, who has the world's own,
 The partner for our time, her time happy life,
 The Prince of Wales, his Princess, and their line,
 Whom's one day drive to the world's own,
 And all the sons of our royal race,
 To be in our home, and the world's own,
 Not least, first, as I find, "we have memorial grand,

Attends his love and handmaid, in our land,
 Alfred George, the Prince of Wales,
 Who joined us in the dance and such like joys
 Of old Lord Lottins palace, and the joys
 Who then attended at the Prince's ball
 May all their shadowy wark now give him place
 To be less short of a good name
 May those who ever said New America's show
 Next to their Cambrian form of sun,
 And friends and well wishers of the cause
 For "true and fact" men never need regret.
 The Garter Palace of the Prince of Wales
 Then ninety years of age, and now so great,
 A gem in this dominion was that pile,
 Our infant colony's rising star,
 'Twas our morning star of heavenly light,
 Bringing over Victorian's bright night,
 She could not see it in the noble glare,
 This poetic daisy of night supply the place
 She has been in Times's eye
 So in our history that palace was a page;
 Exalting with British men and deeds
 In the Victorian age, when you were To be, oh Queen, I dedicate this Queen's page
 To the language of the Queen's page,
 Queen of our hearts, live long, thus reign as well,
 At least a joy to after times should tell,
 That thus had it in the Queen's page,
 And I would be glad to see the Queen's page
 At round a century, like my own grandeur,
 Now more than ever, live long, thus reign as well.

I hail thee glorious, in thy jubilee!

"G. T. CUMINGE'S TREATMENT OF CONSUMPTION AND DYPHTERIA."

"Mr. G. T. CUMINGE has made a great blessing to sufferers, near and wide, in every part of the world, and we ourselves owe him a debt of gratitude. Not long since we placed a rough lair under our own care, who has recovered her health, and is now a confirmed teetotal in the name Mr. Conzerve is publishing one every week, many of which had been given up as past all hope."

"There can be no doubt that for Consumption and other chest complaints, Mr. Conzerve is a specialist of the first order, and stands unrivalled. I have known him cure some other disease in medical science from which the consumptive patient may gather so much hope as from his book."

"I have understood thirty-three cases which are testified in Mr. Conzerve's book are a most extraordinary remedy; but I have never seen any of them, and I am not sure of any who have been published for several years past in this weekly journal. One of them included, one several years past in this weekly journal for a Christian World," Mr. Christian Age, "Christian Age," &c., &c."

The author (Mr. Conzerve, of Coombe Lodge, Putney, London) has been unjustly entreated to make his business known in all the British Colonies.

symmetrical—the most insular of our countrymen," brought a hearty and prolonged cheer from the company, and having interpolated that "such a meeting was worth years of official correspondence, leading to no respect of man, nation, or understanding," he reminded the visitors that they may not forget, while having regard to the interests of their respective colonies, that they "also had great imperial responsibilities." Then he concluded: "The discussions of the Conference should be directed towards practical objects which promise within the immediate future some real advancement; being made. Among the most important questions are the maintenance of our food supply, the reversion of the land and extraneous as which result from war scares, and the keeping open of our means of communication. The main condition of the success of the Conference is the loyal and willing co-operation of all the colonies. Resolutions and reports are made and are forwarded in which I hope we may regard as an earnest of the greater sacrifices which they will make should necessity arise. And when the time comes for each one of us who is placed in a responsible position to hand over to his successor the duties now entrusted to him, I hope it will still be possible to say of our Empire as was said of the Empire of the Romans—

'A Roman in Rome's garb, Spared neither land nor gold;
Nor son nor wife, nor limb nor life,
In those brave days of old.'

(Cheers.) We welcome the representatives of the colonies: we bid them Godspeed in the work they have undertaken; and we send through them to the colonies they represent a frank, hearty, and cordial expression of our sympathy with them." (Loud cheers.) Sir Samuel Griffith spoke for Australia, and promised full consideration for the interests of the Empire in dealing with questions of colonial interest. Sir John Latham, Attorney-General of Cape Colony, told the Colonial Office, through the chairman, some strong truths regarding their treatment of Cape Affairs, and Sir Dillon Bell for New Zealand, replied earnestly and thoughtfully for that colony, his principal point being that none of the colonies had yet learnt to make sacrifices to Imperial interests. Mr. Toynbee, the chairman, to which Mr. Stanhope responded gracefully, the proceedings terminated. This was at midnight.

GOVERNMENT ASYLUMS INQUIRY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In a matter so important as that upon which I and two others have been engaged for several months, I may as well say a few words to the public. My inquiries and suggestions made in the Legislative Assembly last night as reported by you to-day.

I am particularly grieved that as far as I, as chairman of the board appointed to inquire into the management of the destitute asylums of this colony, am aware, the only money expended by my nomination as chairman has been for the purchase of a few bottles of ink. I am sure the Assembly last night contains items which to me are perfectly astounding. No claim in any form has been made by the board, and I am sure that I was not even aware that the members of the board were entitled to anything. Dr. Anthonio Thompson and Mr. Holborn were not relieved from their duties during the investigation, and I had to go to the trouble of making the report to be attributable to the fact that the one member of the board besides myself not interested in the result of the inquiry was not present.

I was on an outbreak of typhoid at St. Leonards, and for six weeks to take charge of the malpractice patients brought here by the Fremantle, which ran for three months, and I had to go to the trouble as a stipendiary magistrate. Neither of my colleagues was relieved from his ordinary duties throughout the whole inquiry, and for three months I had to go to the trouble that this could have prolonged the inquiry for the sake of the face (which we have neither been paid nor interested in), seems to me utterly inconceivable. I am, Sir, yours faithfully, was continued yesterday. The show was well attended throughout the day, and a number of sales were effected. The exhibition will be continued to-day, and will close at 10 o'clock to-night.

J. H. BHOETT.

It is scarcely necessary for me to add that, if called upon, I have ample proof to substantiate my statement.

THURSDAY, MAY 12, 1887.

So far as principle is concerned, the Government cannot be congratulated on the course they took last night. As will be seen from our Parliamentary report, they proposed to make up the sum which they will lose by the reduction of the beer duty from 4d. to 8d. by retaining duties which they asked Parliament a few weeks ago to repeal—notably the duties on butter, cheese, bacon, and hams. These duties are protective in their character, and when the Government proposed their removal the free-traders applauded, while the protectionists in the Assembly declared that if farm produce was allowed to come in free, the tillers of the soil would be ruined. The course that has now been taken has greatly disappointed some of the supporters of the Government; and no wonder. Ministers had, perhaps, strong reasons of their complaints to make of their own. The hon. member for East Stdney declared that he and other free-trade members had been placed in a very awkward position : that it was particularly right in the case of the Government, that it contemplated the restoration of the duties in question, they ought to have intimated as much when the reduction of the beer duty was proposed. As Mr. McMillan says, if the free-trade members had known that the retention of protective duties on farm produce was to be the price for reducing the beer duty, they would probably have refused to sanction the reduction. As it was, they voted under a false impression. He might have added that the Government accepted the amendment, and that the beer duty was reduced in every sort of way, and did not give the House to understand that the reduction would involve important changes in other directions until the House had pronounced upon the question.

and is a great step in the direction of complete free trade. Mr. HENRY PARKER also tells us that the duties are only to remain in force until the Government can organize its property-tax scheme. When they have done that, and got a property tax established, "every duty that contains a vestige of protection will be expunged from the tariff." It is fair comment to say that this is a recognition of the protective character of the duties. If they are not protective, why should the PREMIER talk about their removal, with other vestiges of protection, at some future date? We also learn from the PREMIER'S speech that there was at the outset a division of opinion among the Ministers as to whether Ministers wishing to retain the duty, or not, because they were calculated to help the farmer, but because they brought in revenue, while the COLONIAL TREASURER and others who thought with him desired to abolish them. With normal vigilance employed by Sir PARNACE and the suggestion is confirmed by the fact that the statements in the Report, even as to points of detail, are accompanied by direct references to the particular questions to which answers upon the authority of which they rest. Under these circumstances the Government is bound to give both the full opportunity the evidence the most careful consideration, and then either to condemn the inquiry or condemn the management of the asylums.

The Ministerial explanation fails to satisfy a, and it will fail to satisfy the free-trade party. We very much regret that the Government have felt it necessary to make a statement which must weaken the attachment of some of their best friends. At the same time we regret that the free-trade members of the Assembly will not make this an occasion for embarrassing the Government, or for

This weekly meeting of the Hurstville Literary and Debating Club was held in the station buildings on Tuesday evening, the president (Mr. L. Fiddy) in the chair. The committee appointed to arrange for concert in aid of the Ball Fund, presented their report and losses were stated which was adopted by the meeting. The report showed that the committee's labours had been successful, and that there was a balance in aid of the fund of £284. 17s. 7d.

A MEMOIR of the Lithgow Relief Committee was held at Mr. E. Knapp's office yesterday afternoon. Rev. S. Wilkinson in the chair. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. A letter from Mr. C. W. Cox was also read, stating that they had sufficient money for only one more month's payment for each of the five widows. It was resolved to at once donate £15 to each widow to procure a supply of winter clothing, and from £4 to £8 per month to each widow according to the number of children in each family. That the first of these monthly payments be made central fund be made on the 1st of July. In consequence £15 granted to each widow, it was decided to suggest to the local committee to withhold the last payment from the local fund until the 20th June Account: for additions to Mrs. Buzza's house were passed for payment, also sundry advertising accounts. An application was received from Mrs. Howie stating that two rooms be added to her home for the purpose to enable her to receive her mother-in-law who is blind, Minister of Mines. The central committee with the local tradesmen to distinctly understand that they will not be responsible for any debts contracted by the widows; and that, as they are provided with houses, and are living free of rent, no more per month will be allowed than is above stated. All payments will be made by the central committee through the local committee.

Reference to a paragraph published on Friday last concerning the Pharmaceutical Society, we learn that the paper read by Mr. W. T. Pinley did not contain any proposal that the Board of Technical Education should "take over" the Pharmaceutical Society. The proposals or suggestions (which emanated from representatives of both bodies) were intended to the effect that the Pharmaceutical Society should be managed by a council of nine, consisting of four nominees of the Board of Technical Education and four elected by ballot by members from among the members of the Pharmaceutical Society of New South Wales, the president to be also elected by ballot by the entire body of members. The whole of the proposals were embodied in seven sections, which were criticised by Mr. Pinley. Ultimately the following resolution was agreed to—That the Council, having fully considered the suggestions or propositions made by the representatives of the Technical Council to the representatives of the Pharmaceutical Society, is of opinion that they cannot be entertained."

The girls who have been inmates of the Industrial School at Blolea having now been removed to the buildings recently erected at the Roman Catholic Orphanage, the removal of the Blolea place of detention is undergoing the alterations necessary to prepare it for the reception of short-sentence prisoners from Darlinghurst. The Minister for Justice has requested the Comptroller-General of Prisons to prepare a report for submission to the Government showing the number of prisoners that can be provided for at Blolea, and giving his recommendation as to the manner in which the additional accommodation that will thus be afforded at Darlinghurst will be utilised.

On Tuesday evening the Young Women's Christian Association gave a tea in the Baptist Church School-room, Bathurst-street, to girls employed in those factories which are visited by members of the association. The schoolroom was kindly lent for the occasion, and was decorated with an abundant supply of flowers. Mr. Fisher, secretary of the association, presided, and an excellent tea was provided, to which about 200 sat down. Lady Carrington, who takes a warm interest in young women, was present during the meeting, and by her evident sympathy added greatly to the pleasure of those assembled. Lady Manning and other members of the general committee, with the mission of the ladies united in the efforts to make the evening bright and profitable one to their young guests. Several of the association members delivered addresses, which were much appreciated, and all joined heartily in the singing which varied the programme. The association is much encouraged by the success which has attended this branch of the work, and hopes soon to be able to greatly extend it.

The Baptist Union of New South Wales held its half-yearly meeting yesterday at the Baptist Church, Peel-street, the services being held in the afternoon and one in the evening. At both meetings the Rev. Charles Bright, chairman of the Union, presided. In the afternoon the Rev. A. J. Soper introduced a discussion on the subject of an evangelistic tour in the churches, and the Rev. A. J. Clarke introduced that of issuing letters of commendation to members as they left their various churches. In the evening, a report upon the state of the Jubilee Home Mission Fund was read by the treasurer, and several addresses were delivered.

In reply to Mr. M'Cooey, Mr. J. S. Bray writes:—"In using the word 'Iguala' I erred in the very best of company, both writers and naturalists, the word 'Iguala' being used to more readily distinguish the graceful and beautiful little creatures from their repulsive and hideous-looking brethren of the same order."

We have been reported to state that the young man who was injured on Saturday at the Newton College grounds, and who subsequently died, was not in any way connected with the college. He was a visitor, playing on the college ground, and his death was due, not to a kick, but to the exertion he put forth in the game, for which he proved physically unequal.

A fire, resulting in serious damage to property, broke out about eleven o'clock yesterday morning in a large corrugated iron building in Lower Campbell-street, Surry Hills, occupied by Mr. M. Tierney as a bles and hay and corn store. The Metropolitan Fire Brigade, Paddington Brewery, and Standard Brewery Fire Companies, arrived upon the scene shortly after the discovery of the outbreak, and after about four hours' work brought the flames under, but not before the destruction of the large quantity of straw, produce, machinery, and other stock-in-trade had been nearly burned out. Seven or eight horses, which were in the stables at the time, were rescued by the firemen, fortunately before they were injured. The insurance (if any) on the building and stock is at present unknown, and the M. & F. authorities are making inquiries with a view to ascertaining the origin of the fire.

In a pamphlet in yesterday's issue relative to the result of the Volunteer Artillery Corps qualifying examination, it may be pointed out that all officers referred to qualified for the rank of lieutenant. Among the three last mentioned passed for lieutenants only.

With reference to a paragraph which appeared in yesterday's Herald respecting a second daily postal delivery at Botany Bay, the Postmaster-General has declined the necessity for this upon the Postmaster-General, and received a reply stating that it would be carried out.

THE ADMINISTRATION OF NEW GUINEA.

[BY CABLE.]

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, MAY 10.

Sir Henry Holland has declared that so far as the British portion of New Guinea is concerned, the interests of the Papuans would be fully secured.

(BRUSSELS TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, MAY 10.

In the House of Commons to-day, Sir Henry Holland, in replying to a question, said that it was not desirable to make a public statement of the views of her Majesty's Government as to the administration of New Guinea, until the scheme had received the sanction of the Colonial Legislative interested. The scheme, he added, had been

NEW LAW COURTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In the various leaders and letters that appear in your issue of the 10th inst. I have to touch on what I consider the main feature in public buildings.
 It is not, as I expected that the various publications would be, to the city was originally to these buildings, to the requirements of the when the population has increased a hundred fold the old buildings, and the old buildings are be burned, and the public welfare studied by a of positions.
 For instance, I consider it public disgrace that sit one of our highest hills in the city that rounded by a blank wall containing a lot of loose criminals, who might just as well be located in the city of London, as in the city of Sydney.
 Pease's Ferry—where hard sandstone and are the main features, and no land so well fitted a surrounding population. The prisoners might be placed in the city, and the city might be of the colony, and the raw material would short.
 A city hospital might then be built at Darling the material from the wall and building of the the half-finished structure in Macquarie-street a way suitable for law courts.
 The old buildings, and landmarks of the prison time, and substitute a hospital, would be our civilisation, and a more suitable Jubilee to the illuminated address and firing and crackers.
